SAIPAN CUTS
TOKYO INNER
DEFENSE RINGPOUNDING OF GUAM
TASK FORCE

U. S. Pacific Fleet Headquarters, Pearl Harbor, July 14 (AP)—For the tenth straight day, Guam was ripped by bombs and rockets of Vice Adm. Marc A. Mitscher's task force Thursday in a continuing action which suggested impending developments against that former U. S. outpost.

Adm. Chester W. Nimitz announced tonight in a press release the firing of ammunition dumps, gun positions and other installations on Guam in the July 13 attack by carrier planes.

(Yesterday Tokyo radio told of the assault but added that a battleship also had twice bombed Guam Thursday.)

Raiders Hit Rota

Thursday's raid force also hit Rota, an enemy-held island between Guam and newly conquered Saipan. All planes returned from the Guam and Rota attacks.

Demonstrating mastery of Marianas waters, an American destroyer moved near Guam the night of July 14 and sank a small Japanese coastal transport.

Tonight's press release also reported another neutralizing attack by Marshall-based Army Liberators on bypassed Truk Thursday during which the bulk of a force of interceptors was hit. Of the 16 to 19 Japanese fighters sent against the bombers, four definitely were shot down, four probably downed and five damaged. Four Liberators sustained "minor damage."

Whether invasion of Guam, American island seized by Japan a week after Pearl Harbor, was imminent was a matter for conjecture. It is only 125 miles south of Saipan.

The steady pounding of Guam, once an American naval station, and nearby Rota was in its second week. It had surpassed the hammering that preceded American thrusts into the Gilbert and Marshall islands.

Major Breach Claimed

Saipan's importance at the crossroads to Japan, the Philippines and the China coast was emphasized by Nimitz last night. He said in a communique that its seizure "constitutes a major breach in the Japanese line of inner defenses, and it is our intention to capitalize upon this breach with all means available."

The island was so important to Japanese defenses that it was the headquarters of Vice Adm. Chuichi Nagumo, commander in chief of the central Pacific area for the Japanese navy, Admiral Nimitz reported, "was among those who met their deaths on Saipan."

It was Nagumo who led the attack on Pearl Harbor, he commanded the enemy task force destroyed in the battle of Midway. He died in defeat on Saipan.

Mopping up continued on Saipan. Already 16,000 enemy dead had been buried—more than six times the number of American dead—and the grim job was yet to be completed.

Buzz-Bombs Give London
Grave Refugee Problem

BY TOM YARBROUGH

London, Saturday, July 15 (AP)—With evacuation of London greater than ever during the 1940-41 blitz, a serious situation developed today in finding refuge from robot bombs for women and children, and scores have returned to the capital after being turned away in safe areas.

Hardships faced by evacuees are drawing more attention in the morning press than the bombs themselves, and charges of profiteering are coming from several districts.

While the proportion of stranded among the estimated 169,000 evacuees was comparatively small, the government may be forced to crack down on those reluctant to open their homes, especially for mothers and babies.

And to public clamor for more information about counter-measures against the bombs, Home Secretary Herbert Morrison warned yesterday that the ordeal is not over by a long shot.

In the holiday town of Blackpool first steps are being taken to prosecute eight householders for refusing to accept evacuees.

At the resort of Torquay scarcely any accommodation had been offered for 550 mothers, children and expectant mothers who arrived last night.

Authorities intimated that if homes were not opened within 24 hours, compulsory powers would be used. Meanwhile, evacuees were housed and fed in schools.

There was a possibility that army camps vacated by invasion troops might be opened. Minister of health officials said negotiations had begun with the war office "but no suitable camps are available yet."

After its fourth straight night of relief from the "buzzers," London awakened again today to the mournful sound of the sirens and soon after the winged missiles were scattering over the town.

PLANKS FRAMED
BY DEMOCRATSEarly Chicago Arrivals
Divided On Choice
Of Wallace

BY D. HAROLD OLIVER

Chicago, July 14 (AP)—Early arrivals for the Democratic national convention divided today into Henry A. Wallace and anti-Wallace camps on the topmost issue of a vice-presidential nomination. They found themselves united, however, for a short platform with a sturdy foreign policy plank.

"It won't be Wallace," said Representative Thomas D'Alesandro Jr., of Maryland, but other delegates in hotel lobby interviews declared Wallace still is very much in the picture.

The 29th party convale will convene Wednesday to give President Roosevelt a fourth nomination. Most of the platform building came on the scene during the day and, at an organization meeting, decided to start public hearings Monday. The platform subcommittee is headed by Representatives John McCormack, Massachusetts, and Mary T. Norton, New Jersey.

Word filtered through hotel lobbies that National Committee Chairman Robert E. Hannegan will arrive tomorrow, possibly with a tentative platform and the latest "lowdown" on presidential wishes for a running mate.

Burma Road Base
Stormed By Chinese

Chungking, July 14 (AP)—Chinese troops are storming at the east gate of Tengchung, big Japanese base on the road to Burma, and great fires rage in the city after U. S. air attacks, the Chinese high command said today.

Fighters and bombers of Maj. Gen. Claire L. Chennault's 14th Air Force swarmed over Wednesday and unloaded explosives and incendiaries inside the walls.

BOMBERS BLAST
OIL REFINERIESBad Weather Curtails
Air Operations On Western Front

London, Saturday, July 15 (AP)—American heavy bombers from Italy attacked four oil refineries and rail yards in and near the Hungarian capital of Budapest yesterday as the worst weather since D-day held operations from the west to no more than 1,000 sorties.

The German radio reported at 1 a. m., however, that raiders were over the Hannover-Brunswick region of the Reich in a night continuation of the daylight attacks on Europe.

RAF Lancasters with fighter escort attacked the flying bomb installations in northern France yesterday afternoon without loss and a small force of Liberators heavy bombers followed Pathfinders planes to Amlens and bombed that Somme river rail center by instrument.

Approximately 50 fighter-bombers harassed rail lines back of the Normandy front, engaged about 50 German fighters, and shot down six for a loss of four. They damaged 50 freight cars and three locomotives.

Fliers from fields in Normandy struck targets of opportunity despite low-hanging clouds, but because of the weather the brunt of the assault was borne by the airmen from Italy.

China's First Lady
Taking Rest Cure
At Rio de Janeiro

Chungking, July 14 (AP)—Mrs. Chiang Kai-shek, China's First Lady whose arrival in Rio de Janeiro for a rest cure was announced today, was pale and listless, friends said, when she reported Sunday in utmost secrecy.

Suffering from nervous exhaustion, insomnia and chronic urticaria—an inflammation of the skin—Mrs. Chiang planned to spend three months in Brazil, away from the intense summer heat of China.

Under the care of Commander Frank Harrington, assistant U. S. naval attaché, for several months, China's First Lady told friends at a farewell tea that "Dr. Harrington told me I'd never be cured if I stayed in Chungking."

Commander Harrington said the intense, humid heat of Chungking aggravated Mrs. Chiang's condition.

In her party of 10, which left China secretly to avoid Japanese warplanes, were her sister, Mrs. H. H. Kung, whose husband, as Chinese minister of finance heads the Chinese delegation to the Bretton Woods, N. H., monetary conference, and Mrs. Kung's children, Miss L. W. Kung and Louis Kung.

Absenteeism Called
Outrage By Knudsen
Jackson, Mich., July 14 (AP)—Lt. Gen. William S. Knudsen, newly named chief of material production for the army and air forces, today branded absenteeism as an outrage in a talk to Good-year Tire and Rubber company employees.

"We won't have much of a manpower problem if people we already have will stay on their jobs and do their work. It's an outrage that we have absenteeism now. You can bet there's none of it in foxholes—somebody would get plugged."

PINSK FALLS TO ADVANCING
SOVIET ARMYREDS DRAWING NEAR
BUG RIVER LINE
IN POLAND

BY RUSSELL C. LANDSTROM

London, Saturday, July 15 (AP)—The Red army, pushing westward along a line less than 20 miles from East Prussia, reported today it had broken the Nazis' Niemen River line southeast of Grodno and was closing within seven miles of that big strong point in part of a general advance from the Latvian border region to old Poland.

Among more than 315 towns announced as captured yesterday against slowly stiffening opposition was the German redoubt of Pinsk, 100 miles east of Brest Litovsk, nearly completing liquidation of the Pripyat marshes resistance.

Before Grodno, which dispatches this morning indicated was doomed to fall shortly, the Russians announced capture of Veretshki (Wierchelski), seven miles east, and Zhidomlya, eight miles southeast, but were silent on German statements that Soviet patrols already had twice been driven from Grodno itself.

The troops approaching Grodno reached the Niemen River on a wide front, a Soviet communique supplement said, and in a fierce engagement crossed to the west bank of that historic stream which Napoleon crossed in the summer of 1812 to launch his ill-starred invasion of Russia.

Northwest of newly-taken Wilno, the Russians reported capture of Zholsi, 30 miles from Wilno and only 20 miles southeast of the big Lithuanian city of Kaunas. They were moving up in a great bulge all through that area.

Other outstanding captures of the day as announced in the regular midnight communique and two orders of the day from Marshal Stalin included Wolkowsky and Skidel, on the approaches to Bialystok and Grodno in old Poland, and the railway station of Opochka, 24 miles east of the Latvian border.

Brest Litovsk Next
Pinsk, metropolis of the Pripyat marshes, fell to troops of Marshal Konstantin K. Rokossovsky's first White Russian front, who forced the Yaselsa and Pripyat Rivers and stormed the city with the aid of river gunboats, Marshal Stalin announced.

The Germans a few hours earlier said they had withdrawn from the deeply-outflanked city.

At the present rate of Russian advance, 50 miles east of Bialystok and 80 miles northeast of Brest Litovsk, as the Russians drew steadily nearer to the Bug River line on which Hitler and

IN NORMANDY, (by wireless)—Lieut. Orion Shockley came over with a map and explained to us just what his company was going to do.

There was a German strong point of pillboxes and machine-gun nests about half a mile down the street ahead of us.

Our troops had made wedges into the city on both sides of us, but nobody had yet been up that street where we were going. The street, they thought, was almost certainly under rifle fire.

"This is how we'll do it," the lieutenant said. "A rifle platoon goes first. Right behind them will go part of a heavy-weapon platoon, with machine guns to cover the first platoon."

Nazi Reign Of Terror
Increases In Savagery
As Enemy Sees Defeat

BY JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

Washington, July 14 (AP)—A Nazi "reign of terror" throughout occupied Europe was reported officially today to be increasing in savagery as the enemy's desperation grows with the relentless approach of his day of defeat.

Some authorities suggested that Hitler and his gестаapo leaders, in a final mad frenzy of failure, are now moving into a period of blood lust and ruin that will make the hour of Europe's liberation its darkest hour.

From Secretary of State Hull came the statement that a reign of terror has begun. In London, another state department official, Herbert Claiborne Pell, said he believed the Germans would attempt to wreck occupied Europe as preparation for another war.

Pell said that by such violence—"beyond anything the world has seen"—the Germans would seek to weaken their neighbors permanently while they remained relatively strong.

It was reported wiping out of the Greek village of Distomo and mass killings of Jews in Hungary which prompted Secretary Hull today to denounce atrocities anew and to promise that punishment will be dealt out to the Nazi perpetrators. More than 1,000 persons were reported killed at Distomo in dispatches from Ankara.

"The cold blooded murder of the population of Distomo is another shocking example of the reign of terror which the Nazis have instituted in Europe and which becomes more savage as they become more desperate," Hull said.

Of the massacre of Jews in Hungary "by the Nazis and their Hungarian quislings" Hull declared that the number of victims is already great and "the entire Jewish community in Hungary which numbered nearly 1,000,000 souls" threatened with extermination."

FRENCH TROOPS
SCORE IN ITALYResistance Disappears
In American Drive
Toward Livorno

BY NOLAN NORGAAARD

Rome, July 14 (AP)—German resistance to the advancing Americans on the Fifth army front has suddenly withdrawn. Front-line dispatches reported tonight, with the doughboys making gains up to five miles along most of the line in a bid to enter the big port of Livorno (Leghorn) possibly this weekend.

While hard-fighting French troops celebrated Bastille day by capturing the important communications center of Poggibonsi, 21 miles southwest of Florence, after two days of combat in the outskirts, the Americans were moving up against enemy artillery fire described as merely harassing, and against small rear-guard groups of eight to ten German riflemen. An unsuccessful counter-attack by eighty Germans north of Castellina was described as a comparatively big action, in sharp contrast with the yard-yard fighting advances of the past fortnight.

In their thrust toward the Arno river the Americans still were running into minefields and demolitions, but the character of German opposition had weakened noticeably during the day after some hard close combat yesterday.

Detroit, July 14 (AP)—Twenty-one elevator girls walked off their jobs in the Barlum tower today, leaving tenants of the 800 offices in the 40-story building stranded with their employees. A spokesman for the CIO Department Store Employees' Union said the strike was in protest against the dismissal of one of the girls for union activity.

Management and union hadn't far to go for air in negotiating the dispute. The state mediation board is one of a number of government agencies, including the Detroit traffic court, which are housed in the building.

FRY BUILDS UP
PARTY HARMONYBrother Theodore Not Interested In Place
On State Ticket

Lansing, July 14 (AP)—Frankly seeking harmony in the election campaign, Edward J. Fry, Democratic nominee for governor, today invited Ernest C. Brooks of Holland to become the party's candidate for secretary of state, although Brooks was one of Fry's rivals for the gubernatorial nomination.

He said Brooks had the invitation under advisement, but promised to be cooperative with the entire Democratic ticket in the campaign.

Tomorrow Fry and his running mate, James H. Lee of Detroit, the party's nominee for lieutenant governor, are to meet for the first time at a luncheon in Detroit. Fry said they would "get acquainted and talk a lot of plans for the campaign."

At a press conference Fry announced that in addition to giving Brooks the first crack at the secretary of state nomination, he has sent word that the Upper Peninsula can pick the Democratic nominee for auditor general if its counties can agree "peaceably" among themselves, but that if they fight about it the choice will go to Genesee county.

He said the nominees for state treasurer and attorney general would come from Wayne county, and that former Treasurer Theodore I. Fry, his brother, was cool to suggestions that he run for the office. He said there had been a discussion of the campaign value of ballhoo for a "brother act," but that Theodore Fry was content in his present job as a member of the state liquor control commission.

Top U. S. General
McNair Assigned
To Overseas Post

Washington, July 14 (AP)—The first shift in the top-level command of the army in more than two years was disclosed today with the announcement that Lt. Gen. Lesley J. McNair, ground forces commander who has been called "the brains of the army," has been ordered overseas on an important assignment.

No hint of the nature of McNair's new job was given but the war department stressed that it was important.

Small (he is 5 ft. 8 in. tall), neat, energetic and soft spoken, McNair is the designer of the training program that has produced combat units which fought like veterans in their first battles. He is credited with streamlining the old "Square" division of near 20,000 men into the "Triangular" infantry division of 15,000, and is said to have originated the tank destroyer.

GERMANS ARE HURLED BACK
IN NORMANDYLESSAY STRONGHOLD
PINNED DOWN WITH
ARTILLERY FIRE

BY JAMES M. LONG

Supreme Headquarters, Allied Expeditionary Force, Saturday, July 15 (AP)—The American First army pushed south today with gains up to three miles, took ten French towns, pinned down the coastal stronghold of Lessay with artillery fire and hurled back the stubborn enemy in the center with a blow that menaced the big lateral road linking up the German front.

"The whole U. S. Army front from St. Lo to the sea is on the move," said supreme headquarters, and the night communique declared salients had been driven into enemy defenses before the Lessay-St. Lo road. Some of these positions were less than two miles from the highway.

St. Lo By-Passed
The communique located the gains on both sides of the Taute river, below Auxais, from two and a quarter to three miles on the highway, and front dispatches presumably based on later information placed vanguards within two miles in fighting farther east.

Stalled before St. Lo, the Americans began sweeping around to the north, and supreme headquarters said one thrust carried to the outskirts of Le Mesnil Durand, three and a half miles northwest.

The biggest gains came north-west of Lessay, where doughboys sped three miles south and captured St. Germain-Sur-Ay, Lessay's Harbor. Germans on a spit of land jutting out two and a half miles west had escaped the trap and fled across the Ay river.

Nazi Thrusts Costly
Closing in from the north, where Americans in Beauvais, less than two miles away, were firing into Lessay, other troops seized Launne, three miles northeast of the coastal anchor.

Unable to advance frontally against the ruins of St. Lo, the Americans deepened the lines on the south in a drive which overran Le Barre De Semilly, two miles east and took the highest ground in that sector. They now control four of the nine roads leading into the city.

The Germans threw reserves in to try to hold the tide, and loosed fierce tank counter-attacks to slow the advance along the 48-mile front, but it appeared their recklessness had cost them dearly in the center.

Here, north of Periers, the doughboys swept up four towns, linked forces moving out of the marshes, and fought to high and dry ground, in some places strewn with corpses and littered with more than a dozen tanks wrecked in the abortive German attempt to cut the beachhead in half.

Stalemate at Caen
The seizure of Auxais, Les Champs De Losque, Es-Aubrais and La Vincellerie, all a few miles north and east of Periers, put the Americans on firm ground within two miles of the German vital lateral road from St. Lo to Periers and added to the menace to both strongholds.

One column in a 500-yard push down the road from Sainteny reached the approaches of Raids, three and a quarter miles northeast of Periers.

While the U. S. armed might was liberating French towns and territory on this Independence Day for France, a stalemate continued on the Caen front where

MOONSHINE IS COMING BACK

Mountain Stills Active, Despite Shortage Of Sugar

BY S. BURTON HEATH
NEA Staff Correspondent
Washington.—Moonshining—the manufacture of illicit "whiskey"—has been on the upswing since late last summer. Seizures by federal agents, which give the best available yardstick, have more than doubled since the all-time low of November, 1942.

This upsurge should not, however, be over-emphasized. It is important mostly in contrast with the abnormal depression to which sugar rationing, scarcity of essential materials, and high pay in industrial employment, had driven a once flourishing industry.

Last March, the most recent month for which figures are available, Treasury agents seized 554 stills and 237,000 gallons of mash which looked high by comparison with 355 stills and only 107,000 gallons of mash for November, 1942. Mash gallons are considered the best index of moonshining activity.

The consistent but slow rise that began last year has not brought moonshining to anything approaching the pre-war level, however. Federal authorities do not anticipate any serious increase until sugar becomes readily available to the moonshiners. For while their product is called "whiskey" and occasionally is disguised with counterfeit labels of some of the old favorite ryes and bourbons, actually most of it is made from sugar or syrup rather than from grain.

Shortages No Hardship
The quality of the product, in case you haven't risked any of late, is something less than pediculous. It isn't poison—if that gives any cheer. "I'm making it to sell, not to drink," one moonshiner explained.

The price, even for these times, is scandalous. It bears little relationship to cost of production, but is controlled by the old economic laws of supply and demand. There was a short period when moonshine of better "quality" could be had wholesale for 85 cents a gallon. The retail price in Atlanta used to be 35 cents a half pint.

Now the wholesaler or distributor picks up five gallon cans from a "drop" in the woods at from $50 to $72, averaging about $12.50 a gallon from Baltimore to Mobile. The highest retail price is $25 a gallon in Alabama, $1.50 a half pint in dry Baldwin County, Alabama.

All of the moonshiner's costs have risen, of course, and his volume has gone down. The biggest increase in expense is for labor. Helpers who used to accept as little as $1 a day now are getting $10. Nevertheless, the moonshiner is making more money now than when costs were lower and volume many times as great.

Metal and material shortages have not worked too great hardship on these lawbreakers. Copper has been all but impossible to obtain, but copper is only a refinement anyway. For years it has been used, in many sections of the South, only for condensers, and a lot of alcohol can be distilled in an old automobile radiator.

Officials Row Over Reconversion Plans

BY MARQUIS CHILDS

Washington.—If Germany is in the midst of a major war crisis, we here, it is now obvious, are in the middle of a minor one. A symptom is the row just concluded over whether a start is to be made on civilian production.

On one side is Donald Nelson, chairman of the War Production Board, who has put through orders which will open the way to civilian war production. On the other side are the chiefs of the armed services, abetted with particular zeal by Undersecretary of War Robert P. Patterson.

Actually, Nelson and the services are not so far apart. What Nelson proposes is a small scale beginning; a kind of test run that will give industry a chance to see how reconversion works.

Patterson and the generals fear that this will add to the stream of workers who are leaving war plants for jobs they hope will be permanent. So long as acute manpower shortages exist in some communities, Patterson argues vehemently, not a single additional worker should go into civilian industry.

Labor Shortage Serious
He cites such areas as Akron, Ohio, where the manpower scarcity is so serious that the other day Lieutenant General William Knudsen and Rubber Director Bradley Dewey flew out to see what they could do to get more men and more production in the nation's rubber capital. The scarcity of heavy duty truck tires will soon hit hard. Manpower shortages almost as serious exist elsewhere.

Behind the dispute of the two wings of the war directorate is something far more fundamental. It is the failure to exercise basic controls at key spots and especially over manpower.

It shouldn't be a choice at this stage between all production and war production with a small sample for civilians. If they could be properly utilized, our resources of men and materials should produce.

Both Sides Blamed
Blame lies, it seems to me, on both sides. When I was in Detroit last week, a complaint I frequently heard was that the armed services had failed to cut back production of items already in surplus. Whether for fear of a bad reaction in Congress or simply through a determination to go doggedly ahead with a program already laid out, warehouses are being allowed to fill up with materials that may never be used.

It's an extremely complicated business, this converting of swords into plowshares when the swords are as complicated as the ones being made for this war. Our knowledge of how to go about the process is frighteningly small.

Little irritants tend to touch off tempers. Patterson saw red at an order approving the use of once scarce materials by toy companies. The materials were not essential, but the zealous Patterson feared labor would be attracted from war plants. Approximately 150 toy companies would take a labor force of about 15,000. Twenty-one of these companies were in Chicago, where the labor shortage is acute.

More Guns Needed
At the same time General Eisenhower was sending urgent requests for more mobile guns of large calibre. The demand for tanks was stepped up. Offshore barges made it necessary to rebore many naval guns. All this as steel production schedules fell behind.

When he is aroused, the undersecretary can stand as a model for

Social Security Payments Total $15,000 Monthly

As of June 30, 1944, approximately $15,000 has been paid out in monthly benefits each month under the old age and survivors insurance provisions of the Social Security Act in the area served by the Escanaba field office of the Social Security Board.

This was announced by Stanley T. Faulstich, manager of that office. The area served by the Escanaba office consists of Chippewa, Delta, Luce, Mackinac, Menominee and Schoolcraft counties.

"That does not include substantial amounts being paid out each month in lump-sum benefit payments," Mr. Faulstich added.

Mr. Faulstich stated that the number of beneficiaries is somewhat lower than was originally anticipated, largely because of war conditions. Wage earners have not retired in the expected proportions as wage levels are generally higher and the services of the older employees are urgently needed.

outraged Robespierre. Occasionally his fanaticism may have been misdirected. But if full production for the long pull ahead, as Eisenhower sees it, means throttling even the smallest beginnings of peacetime business, then let's face it.

Morrill of New York city, directors, are in the city to attend a company directors meeting and for an inspection tour of the plant of the Lloyd Manufacturing company of which Heywood-Wakefield is the parent concern.

BOTH RENOMINATED

Iron Mountain.—Because yesterday's statement of the vote for Dickinson county judge of probate indicated that Roy R. Derham, incumbent, was renominated to the office on the non-partisan ticket over Edward J. Dundon, his opponent, and that Dundon was out of the running, it is emphasized that both candidates were nominated, and both names will appear on the ballot in the general election next November.

Any statement to the contrary was in error.

Derham was accorded the greater vote, 2,253 and Dundon, 1,432 with one precinct—Channing—missing. The Channing vote has not yet been reported, but the turnout there was small.

131 ENROLLED IN 4-H CLUBS

County Boys And Girls Are Participating In Summer Work

One hundred and thirty-one boys and girls of Delta county are enrolled in 4-H Club summer projects work in eight clubs. It was announced yesterday by Earl Willette, county emergency food production and preservation assistant. Of the total, 67 are boys and 64 are girls.

Although the total membership is 131, many of the members enroll in two or more projects, thereby bringing the total project enrollment up to 244. Victory club work is most popular with 69 enrolled, gardening is second with 66, canning follows with 43, and next in popularity is food preparation and dairy. Other summer projects being carried on are potatoes, poultry, Junior leadership, rabbits, swine, insect and wild flower study.

The clubs, their leaders, membership, and working projects are as follows:

Danforth club—Elmer Johnson leader, 10 boys and four girls in dairying.

North Delta—Mrs. A. Whybrev and Leo Hill leaders, 8 boys and 9 girls; canning and victory for girls, dairy, victory and junior leadership for boys.

Cornell—Mrs. Harold Artley, leader; 10 girls and 2 boys; gardening for boys, canning and dairying for girls.

Jeep Drivers Fight Back At Nipponese Snipers On Saipan

(By Sgt. Bob Cooke, Metuchen, N. J., A Marine Corps Combat Correspondent; Distributed by The Associated Press)

Saipan, Marianas Islands, (delayed)—The stage-coach days of the old west are being reenacted on the bullet-swept back roads of Saipan.

Only instead of cargoes of gold dust, dry goods, and pay rolls, Saipan's Pony Express carries plasma, ammunition, water, rations—and surprisingly often, mail, right up to the front lines, along with mimeographed copies of the day's radio news.

Of course, the horse power has been considerably stepped up. The Jeeps of Saipan have proved they can go anywhere a tank or tractor can go, and into dozens of places where the terrain, the smell of dead bodies, and the smoke of explosions would stop a team of stage coach horses in their tracks. But the Japs make the old movie thrillers come all too true. Jeeps now have mounted machine guns and rocket guns. There is even a mounted flame-thrower.

garden, canning, victory; boys in garden, canning and victory projects work.

Coming through the narrow passes between Saipan's hills the jeeps are open to sniper and machine gun fire every minute of their continuous daily shuttling. The drivers come to know the snipers by name: Two-shot Tojo, Gha-Cha Charlie, Mr. Five by Five.

Sometimes, when things get too hot, they hop out like the old western drivers and barricade themselves behind their vehicles, shooting it out with the Japs slug for slug. And no jeep or truck in the first two weeks on Saipan has been abandoned to enemy fire. They may have had to detour, but the supplies, like the Pony Express, always get through.

LOCAL SOLDIER DIES OF WOUNDS

Pfc. Robert Derouin Is Killed In Action In New Guinea

Pfc. Robert Derouin, 29, son of Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Derouin, 306 N. 12th street, who was wounded in action in New Guinea on June 28, died of his wounds on June 28, the war department has informed his parents.

Mr. and Mrs. Derouin were notified on July 12 that their son had been seriously wounded in action in New Guinea. The telegram reporting his death was received yesterday, two days after the receipt of the first telegram, and on the young man's 29th birthday.

He entered service June 3, 1941 and had been stationed in New Guinea for 11 months. Details concerning the action which resulted in his death have not been learned here.

He was born in Escanaba July 15, 1915 and attended St. Anne's school and the Escanaba Junior high school. Before entering service, he was employed as a laborer by the Chicago and North Western Railroad.

Besides his parents, he is survived by the following brothers and sisters: Harold, Joseph, Ernest, John, Florence, Oliver, Jr., and Theresa, all of Escanaba; Y. S. Clifford Derouin, in the U. S. Navy, now overseas, and Mary Jane Derouin, of Milwaukee.

Frank Boyer, 39, Dies In Detroit; Services Monday

Frank Boyer, 39, who resided at Rapid River for many years until last fall, dropped dead Wednesday while working at the Escanaba company plant in Detroit.

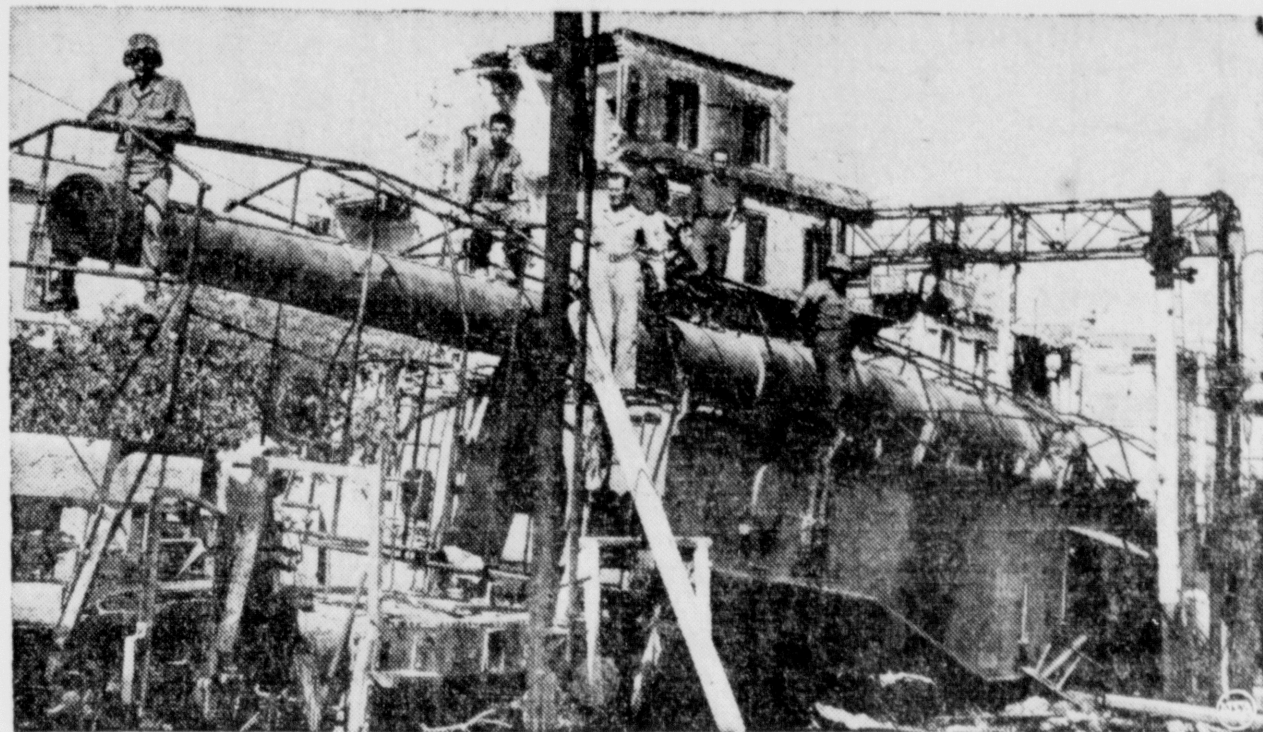

The body was shipped to Escanaba and prepared for burial at the Alto funeral home and will be moved to the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph R. Boyer, Rapid River, Sunday afternoon at three o'clock.

Funeral services will be held Monday morning at nine o'clock at St. Charles church, Rev. Thomas Anderson officiating, and interment will be in Rapid River cemetery.

He was born in Rapid River Nov. 20, 1904 and resided there until last fall, when he moved to Detroit. Besides his wife, the former Ruth Petty, to whom he was married in 1924, he is survived by four children, Frances Ruth Lee, in the Navy at Great Lakes, Donna Mae and Betty Jane, and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Boyer.

Brothers and sisters who survive are Cleatus, Madeline and Irene, of Rapid River; Mrs. Albert Iverson, Chicago; Jack Boyer, Chicago; Mrs. Jack Millinski, Toledo, and Sam Boyer, Fort Sill, Okla.

FORMER 'RAILS' HELP WIN WAR

Trainmen With Hammer Tongs Forge Vital Weapons

BY S. J. WOOLF
NEA Staff Correspondent

A Transportation Depot, England—Lt. Col. Howard W. Bates of Canton, O., who was a shop superintendent with the Pennsylvania Railroad before he donned khaki, led the way up a shabby wooden staircase to the roof of a former car barn. Looking off in one direction as far as the eye could see there were gigantic stacks of wheels, roofs, floors, springs and all the other parts that go to make cars.

We were looking at only one of the scores of depots where the Transportation Corps is turning out the wherewithal to carry men and material where they are needed in the invasion.

We left the roof and roamed over miles of tracks which move their way in and out like mountain passes. But the mountains were mountains of steel and iron and wood which had been shipped overseas. At last we went into the vast workshop where four lines of cars were being assembled.

Job Is No Cinch
Grease-smear men, looking little like soldiers, were at work. They were attaching bumpers, air brakes, couplings and all the other necessary contraptions to the under side of the car floors. These were hoisted by travelling cranes and set on their axles.

Then the embryo cars were pushed along on their tracks and given over to the body builders. Before long they became gondolas, cabooses, tank cars or big box-cars of those tiny box-like creations which in the last war were marked 40 homes, 8 chevaux.

But when the stencillers got to work on these they marked their capacity in kilos, which, as Sergeant Louis Oswald of Cleveland, O., pointed out, could be understood equally well in France or Germany.

Every officer from shavetail up in this Car Erection Depot was a railroad man in private life. So were most of the enlisted men. Their job is no cinch. Even the excitement of conflict does not relieve the monotony. The tap of the riveting machines is their drum beat. Most of the time their uniforms are overalls. They sleep in Nissen huts and except for an occasional trip to town they have few diversions. There is no chance for glory in what they are doing. Yet with hammer and tongs they are playing an indispensable part in the invasion of France.

Rock are the parents of a son born at St. Francis hospital on Saturday morning July 8th. Mrs. Johnson is the former Helen Lamphorn of Rock. Her mother, Mrs. Emil Lamphorn, passed away the next day at Pinecrest Sanatorium. Powers after an illness of four years.

Miss Aili Lempi of Chicago is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Ranta.

Mrs. Wallace Bridges of Chicago is visiting friends here.

Mrs. Victor Stamper of Baton Rouge, La., is visiting her parents Mr. and Mrs. John Lauri.

Pvt. Wm. Provost Prisoner Of War

Pvt. William Provost, 19, son of Mrs. Mary Provost, of Detroit, formerly of Escanaba, who was previously reported missing in action in Italy, is a prisoner of war of the German government, relatives have been informed by the war department.

Pvt. Provost, who was with the U. S. Rangers at Cassino, was missing in action since January 30. He entered service May 5, 1943 from Detroit, where he was employed.

His grandmother, Mrs. Paul Provost, resides at 1715 Seventh avenue north, Escanaba.

Briefly Told

Cottage Entered — Officers of the sheriff's department are investigating the report that the Walter Wickert summer home at Ford River was entered Thursday or Thursday night. A window and a flower box were broken, and the interior of the house had been ransacked. Officers believe the damage was done by youthful pranksters.

Continue Vote Canvass — The canvassing board of Delta county did not complete its work yesterday and continued over until today, when it is expected to report on the official tally of votes cast in the primary election last Tuesday.

MORE CIVILIAN GOODS LIKELY

Reconversion Expected To Ease Shortages In Near Future

Washington—Don't count on anything in the way of new home-folk's goods before well-laid plans are hatched and something is in sight on the counters of your market.

Some cackling is going on, however, which shows that farsighted plans are under way. Office of Price Administration has set up a clock-makers' committee to take care of pricing problems when clocks are made again. War Production Board says it won't be soon because copper is too short.

One manufacturer, now free of war work, has been given a go-ahead to make electric clocks. Others might be found, as war work declines, with parts on hand to turn out a few clocks. It would mean very slim picking for one-third of the nation's families reported in the last survey of home-folks' needs to be in the market for alarm clocks.

Another meeting is coming up between WPB officials and utensil makers to plot the aluminum pot and pan program. At the last meeting a few weeks ago it was announced that aluminum limitations would be removed so kitchenware could be made. Before the program starts it must be settled who will get how much aluminum to make what. That will take time.

There may then be hitches be-

Thomas M. Brown Claimed by Death

Thomas M. Brown, 48, 406 S. 12th street, veteran of World War I and recently of the U. S. Merchant Marine, died in the U. S. Marine hospital at Baltimore, Md., yesterday morning at 7 o'clock, according to word received here.

Brown, who was a bachelor, was born in Escanaba July 27, 1895. He was in the U. S. Army during the first World War and served in France with Battery A, 73rd Artillery, C.A.L. Before his fatal illness he had been serving in the Merchant Marine.

He was a member of St. Patrick's Catholic church.

Surviving are the following brothers and sisters, Margaret Brown, Elta Brown and Mrs. T. J. Dufour, city; Mrs. Gordon Forsythe, Detroit; and William Brown, Flint.

The body was removed to the Alto funeral home. Funeral arrangements are not complete.

Between program and pan such as those shown in present canning equipment programs. Completion date on 500,000 cold pack canners has been postponed from July 1 to October 1. Some of the manufacturers scheduled to make pressure canners have had to give up their quotas for new war work. The quotas are being shifted to other plants, but it may mean some delay.

Dr. Lund Retires

THE resignation of Dr. C. Albert Lund as pastor of Bethany Lutheran church here after a service of nearly 38 years, will be received with deep regret by a host of Escanaba citizens, even outside his own congregation. Ever since Dr. Lund came to Escanaba, in 1906, he has taken a prominent part in shaping both the moral and civic life of this community. His retirement as pastor of the largest Protestant congregation in Escanaba will be regarded by his friends, both in and outside his church, as the achievement of a well earned period of rest, after a lifetime of vigorous activity in the service of his church and his community.

During his long pastorate here, no movement for the betterment of Escanaba has ever failed to win the active support and vigorous backing of Dr. Lund. Because of his many civic activities he has become Escanaba's best known and most thoroughly respected clergyman.

Dr. Lund will retire from the pastorate of Bethany Lutheran church with a fine record of permanent accomplishment. The magnificent church property that has been established here under his direction will stand for all time as a monument to his energy and the cooperation of a loyal congregation.

While impaired physical health is the reason for his retirement his friends will sincerely hope that a may be spared for many years, for the enjoyment of the rest he has so richly earned.

Policy Wins Approval

THE important part the municipal administration is playing in the industrial expansion program initiated here by the Escanaba Chamber of Commerce about a year ago was explained in the discussions held at the Citizens Forum meeting last Wednesday night.

Funds raised by the Escanaba Chamber of Commerce by popular subscription were used to purchase and remodel the old tannery building for the Lambert Novelty and Mirror Works. Engineering advice for this project was furnished by the city.

When the Escanaba Chamber of Commerce induced the Venus Foundation Garment company to locate here, the city council came to its assistance by purchasing the former Pontiac garage building and renting it to the new industry. The same kind of service also was given in acquiring the old C&N railway blacksmith shop for rental by the Solar Furniture company.

Escanaba is not the only city in the United States that is employing public funds to acquire buildings for new industries. There are a few others, but the plan is less than a year old here. Expressions of opinion at the Citizens Forum meeting Wednesday night indicated that the city's industrial policy has general approval. Now that the community is wholeheartedly back of the plan, the city of Escanaba and the Escanaba Chamber of Commerce can feel justified in continuing their efforts to bring about a greater diversification of industry here.

The Tacoma Plan

ESCANABA and other communities seeking labor for their old and new industries so that they may operate at full capacity could probably obtain some valuable knowledge by studying the so-called Tacoma Plan for recruiting industrial workers.

The Tacoma Plan began with the usual small group of citizens, retail merchants and Chamber of Commerce members, who saw the community need and got together to remedy it. A "Workers for Victory Committee" was organized with the slogan, "Take a job and stick to it," and despite the fact that Tacoma citizens were getting quite bored with repeated drives, they reacted enthusiastically to the new campaign.

The committee first made an analysis of the situation in Tacoma, with a list of actual vacancies and wages paid. The approach to housewives was prepared, and the committee had all the answers ready. Then, an extensive publicity campaign was launched, informing the public that 5,800 workers were needed in the city's industries.

More than 1,500 applicants went to the employment service office the following day. The committee did not stop there, however. Each day, the members met and outlined the day's procedure. The campaign was conducted on an intimate community level. Letters were sent to all householders and the appeal was made to housewives that there was something which they could do. The committee members did more than talk about the problem. They actually did some hard work. The telephone directory was cut up into sections, and given out to responsible citizens, who called the names listed and ferreted out all available sources of labor. Going deeper into the labor problem, the committee established a nursery school to enable mothers to take jobs in Tacoma industries. Many jobs were also filled by men in the marginal-age group, retired pensioners and disabled persons who still had some work left in them. The Tacoma Plan was a success. As a result, the city's industries have been running at full capacity, and the merchants and other citizens are enjoying the benefits of the increased payrolls.

Cherry Harvest Begins

ORCHARD owners in the famous Door county of Wisconsin and Grand Traverse bay region in Michigan are expecting to harvest one of the biggest cherry crops in history.

The cherries are on the trees in abundance, and the only factor that could conceivably prevent a bumper harvest would be a shortage of pickers in these times when manpower is always hard to find. This problem was anticipated early, however, and through the united efforts of the agricultural extension service, the employment service and various other agencies, hundreds of pickers have been recruited. A host of them, mostly boys and girls from Delta and Marquette counties, went to the Door peninsula orchards Thursday. Others have been assigned to the Traverse City area.

Michigan is the leading producer of sour cherries in the United States, and the Grand Traverse bay region alone is expected to produce 50 million pounds during the harvest the next three weeks. Wisconsin is in third place as a cherry producer, but it boasts the heaviest concentration of trees in the country, since its cherry industry is mostly within Door county. This year, Door county expects to pick from 20 to 30 million pounds.

A large portion of the cherry crop will be set aside for the armed forces, but there will be a much larger amount left over this year for nice, juicy pies for civilians. The cherries will be appreciated by the boys who are fighting over there, so those who are volunteering their services for the harvest are actually doing a much worthwhile home front job.

SAVING TIN FOR BREWERS (Christian Science Monitor)

Has the WPB ever satisfactorily explained its order releasing metal for one billion cans to be filled with beer for shipment overseas?

How can this agency of the Government reconcile the Administration's appeal to the women of America to save tin for scrap drives with its directive turning over the almost precious metal to the brewers?

The millions of housewives who are daily flattening tin cans believe they are saving tin for essential war purposes—for use in materials of war or in preserving foodstuffs. Are they merely working for the brewers?

Must valuable shipping space, as well as precious tin, be given over to the purposes of the brewing industry? Since when have alcoholic drinks become essential to the war effort? Remember the air ace to whom Eddie Rickenbacker pledged a case of Scotch, only to find that he never touched the stuff?

ENGLAND'S RAGE (Detroit Free Press)

One of the causes of the last two wars has been the Junker German's inability to understand the mentality of democratic peoples. Like the Bourbons, they can never forget and never learn. This robot attack on England is just another example.

The British people have been in wars for a thousand years and no doubt at the end of this one would have said, "Well, that's that," and overlooked the bombing of London as a part of modern war. At least there was a military reason.

But these robot attacks, without any military value at all, they resent with a new-found bitterness that will not be wiped away with victory. That to the average Englishman is just plain downright cussedness without purpose. "It just doesn't make sense," says the pragmatic Englishman and that is something he can never forgive.

THE DAY OF THE HELICOPTER (Detroit Free Press)

That first Detroit helicopter home delivery test wasn't a pluperfect success, admittedly, but it needn't be regarded as conclusive. The pre-history man who discovered how to make a fire wasn't daunted at his first failure. The unknown inventor of the wheel probably didn't achieve a perfect circle right off. Edison tried thousands of times before he put together an electric light that worked. The Wright Brothers worked like Trojans years before they first got off the ground at Kitty Hawk.

All that the helicopter test proved was that the first 24 hours after victory the air over Detroit will not be filled with helicopters in numbers comparable to the fish-fles that descended upon the city the other day. But the day of the helicopter will come sometime. Its forerunners are the proof.

The Round Table

BY RAYMOND MOLEY

The Republican platform missed a bet when it failed to paraphrase its patron saint, Lincoln, and say, "God must have loved small business men: He made so many of them." But the Republicans loved them and saluted them, and so too the Democrats probably will. Whether all this concern will materially help the three million-odd small businesses of the country remains to be seen. But it is significant that the most individualistic and the least organized economic group has succeeded in making enough noise to worry the major parties.

In 1936, both parties overlooked small business. In 1940, both took note of them. This time, the Republican Party, which has suffered so much in the past by being called the party of big business, is on the way to being called the small-business party. And small-business support can put Mr. Dewey well on the highroad to the White House.

If it is fair to estimate the number of small concerns at about three million, the number of votes directly involved will run to three or four times that number—perhaps more. That bloc of votes, if it can be called a bloc, is as potent as labor, although not so large as agriculture. Moreover, if, as can be assumed, it is not happy over taxation and rationing, it will be set for a change. Since the mental bent of its members is capitalistic and risk-seeking, it will not be attracted by the collectivism of the New Deal-CIO party.

That the political disposition of small business is a matter of concern to the Administration is shown by various efforts to divert it from Republican leanings. Mr. Morgenthau, no doubt seeking to beat the Republican platform-makers to the issue, made two important but divergent statements during the week in which Mr. Taft's committee was laboring on the platform. On June 19th, the Secretary of the Treasury, in Chicago, was doubtful about the removal of dual taxation of corporation profits. Four days later, in Washington, he spoke of the importance of risk capital. Earlier, Marriner Eccles discussed in the Federal Reserve Bulletin the plight of small business under double taxation. He said: "Perhaps the most important tax deterrent results from the fact that income is taxable under the corporation income tax, and it is again taxable under the personal income tax when it is distributed as dividends to the owners. This procedure has a number of harmful results."

If Mr. Morgenthau is so concerned about the scarcity of risk capital, he might reconsider the practical suggestion of Colleague Eccles, since the double taxation of incorporated small business probably falls more directly upon few people per corporation than it does in the case of big business. There are many other handicaps upon small businesses for which political government is responsible. In many ways, obviously, the hand of bureaucracy falls much more heavily on small than on big business.

It would seem that Mr. Dewey has a genuinely important issue here. On the side of practical politics, nothing he can say on behalf of small business can offend big business, while little said on their behalf is contrary to the interests of workers. Most important of all is the fact that small business has a series of critical problems which is a most legitimate responsibility of a party which is asking for the control of government.

The Busiest Man in the Russian Army

Good Morning!

ON SCHEDULE—There is in Delta county one alien woman, a mother of several children, who wants to become a citizen but is having difficulty in attaining that desirable status.

It seems that for several years every time nationalization hearings are scheduled by R. W. Gearing, Sault Ste. Marie, naturalization examiner, a woman is having a baby. It happened again this year, and Dunathan brought from Gearing a humorous comment to the effect that:

"Either we will have to change our schedule—or she'll have to change hers."

CHERRY PICKERS—Finally the 100 or so cherry pickers from the Escanaba area got underway for Sturgeon Bay cherry orchards, but not until after at least one also start and considerable inconvenience all around. And all because the unseasonably cold north wind made weather conditions unfavorable for landing at Gill's Rock on the Door County peninsula.

The Washington Island ferry scheduled to take the pickers to Door County tried to make a landing at Gill's Rock the day before the scheduled cherry picker cruise—but waves were so high a landing was impossible. Passengers wanting to get ashore had enough had to jump from boat to dock as the ferry slid past, but autos and other freight the boat carried couldn't be unloaded.

E. A. Wenner, receiving notice at 6 a. m. that the ferry would not come to Escanaba on the scheduled day, had to do some fast work to keep the pickers from showing up. A group from Marquette was headed off at the railroad station, but some Delta county folks came to Escanaba and had to stay over for a day.

They should have been pleased the boat didn't sail that day. If it had there would have been about 100 of the 100 cherry pickers laid out with a bad case of sea sickness.

QUALITY CUT—It is reported from New York by the Associated Press that the petroleum administration has "virtually decided" to again reduce the quality of gasoline to be placed on the civilian market. The quality cut is necessary because of increased military demands for 100 octane aviation gasoline.

This may be expected to bring the usual gripe from civilian motorists—and the usual flood of rumors that the "poor gas" is the cause of practically all car troubles. Garage mechanics are becoming a little bit weary of explaining that if your motor car is in good operating condition the quality of gasoline now provided is entirely adequate for the operation of your car, and much better than it was in the days when motor cars were more of a fancy than a fact.

A well-cared for motor can take the new gasoline and utilize it effectively, but a poorly functioning motor would be troublesome even with the best gas. And incidentally, it makes little difference what brand of gas you purchase for in this wartime emergency it's all the same quality.

No matter how you look at it, however, our condition is better than that of our enemies. In Ger-

NOXIOUS WEEDS—Some one of these days, perhaps after the war, Escanaba folks are going to ask for a program to eradicate noxious weeds in the city—both on their own property and on public property.

Most harmful of noxious weeds found inside our city limits are poison ivy and ragweed. Poison ivy, of course, has a lingering reputation and is well-known to most folks. It is found in the city limits along the bay shore particularly. It extends outside the city limits along M-35, and there the state highway department would be responsible for its eradication on the state highway right-of-way.

Ragweed seems to be prevalent within the city to a marked degree, especially on vacant lots, and in Ludington Park where the soil has been exposed. Cure for ragweed is frequent pulling and cutting during the growing season, and the encouragement of grass growth which will choke out the weeds.

As in any campaign, community action is necessary. Owners of private property, occupants of property, and city street and park crews could do much even during wartime if they would cut, mow and pull weeds more industriously.

Looking to the future, Escanaba and vicinity will be more than ever a locality for the tourist and southerner seeking recreation. Ragweed is the villain for hayfever sufferers. It has been shown that ragweed pollen causes 70 per cent of all the irritation which afflicts those with hayfever. A community and an area free of ragweed is good advertising and good business.

NEW YORK—During his visit to N. Y. General de Gaulle was questioned about woman's place in post-war France. He replied that after the war, the women of France, who never received the right of franchise, will be permitted to vote. "President Roosevelt," said de Gaulle, "will make a better peace than President Wilson did. Roosevelt is a more practical man." When the General was in Washington he was told by the State Dept. that it would be all right for him to give a private dinner party for 50, and that the State Dept. would pay for it. Hence the dinner party at the Waldorf-Astoria on Monday night for 50 prominent New Yorkers.

He telephoned a prominent man, who invited him to dinner and who asked: "Have you a car?" "Yes, I have a car and chauffeur," Ikes told him. "Dismiss them," said the man. "I'll send my car over to pick you up." Ikes dismissed the rented car and chauffeur. Later the bell captain phoned Ikes' room and told him that a car was waiting for him. Mr. and Mrs. Ikes went downstairs—and there was the car and chauffeur provided by their host. It was the same rented car and chauffeur Ikes had dismissed.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON

(Lt. Col. Robert S. Allen now on active service with the Army)

Washington—Out of the bickering, scrambling, wire-pulling over who should be Roosevelt's running mate has emerged a backstage whisper, at first almost inaudible, but now growing to a point where party councils take it seriously.

It is the idea of nominating Wendell Willkie for Vice President on the Democratic ticket.

Behind the idea are several factors. Most important is the White House feeling that any wartime Administration must be non-partisan. Henry Wallace, son of a Republican member of the Harding Cabinet, now is classified as a full-fledged Democrat—despite wry faces made at him in the South.

This non-partisan idea is one reason for the President's leaning toward Ambassador John Winant, former GOP Governor of New Hampshire, as his running mate. Advisers say he has in mind the last wartime election, when Abraham Lincoln chose Andrew Johnson, a Democrat. Born in North Carolina and a former Governor of Tennessee, Johnson had opposed secession and sympathized with Northern Republicans, though maintaining his official position as a Democrat. He was nominated for Vice President by a Republican convention which called Lincoln and Johnson a "Union" ticket.

Some of the Democrats about to gather in Chicago seem to think that, with Roosevelt nominated, they will have a walkaway. However, Democratic Chairman Bob Hannegan and those nearest the President expect a very tough fight, feel that the candidate for Vice President must be selected with great care on the basis of winning votes.

And when it comes to vote-getting, there is a unanimous feeling that Willkie could powerfully pull voters away from the Republican ticket. Another development which has surprised party chieftains has been the reaction of Southerners to Willkie. In the last few days, some quiet soundings of Southern leaders have been made, and they have been almost unanimous in their approval of Willkie for Vice President.

One fatal boner the Deweyites pulled which other Republicans grievously regret was failure—or refusal—to invite Willkie to the GOP convention in Chicago. It has been traditional in the Republican party for years that the previous standard bearer shall be a delegate to the convention. Usually he is also invited to address the convention.

However, when Dewey managers came to getting up the New York State delegates to Chicago, Willkie was spurned. He had already withdrawn publicly from the race, had told the entire nation he was not a candidate. Furthermore, Willkie had made it known to friends, who got it to the Dewey camp, that he wanted to be a delegate, wanted particularly a chance to help shape the party platform.

However, Dewey managers didn't seem to want Willkie around. NOTE—Word is now being passed out by the Deweyites that, if Willkie doesn't like the GOP platform, he should have been in Chicago to help straighten it out. —SENATOR O'DANIEL'S SOLDIER SONS—Last month Senator "Pappy" O'Daniel, Texas' "rooth'n'-tooth'n' radio man, delivered a diatribe in which he launched his third party revolt and, among other things, emphasized how he was protecting America "while our brave sons are away from home, fighting."

Interesting fact, however, is that Senator O'Daniel's brave sons, though in the Army, have hardly been away from home at all. For some strange reason, they have been quartered right here within a stone's throw of Washington, frequently have been seen with their father at the Hotel Washington, where he lives in a comfortable suite.

In fact, one of O'Daniel's "brave sons" was given unusual opportunities to graduate from an officers' candidate school. He was permitted to take the course over again three different times. Most candidates are thrown out on their ear the minute they fail.

Pat O'Daniel first went to officers' candidate school at Fort Benning, Ga., where he failed. Reason given was ill health. Then he got transferred to the Adjutant General's school at Fort Washington, on the Maryland-District of Columbia line. This school is a non-combat school. However, Pat failed to make the grade, again for reasons of ill health. This was his second try for a commission, but he got a third one.

Army officials gave no explanation for this, admitted that it was most unusual for any officer candidate to get so many shots at a commission.

Finally, Pat O'Daniel made the grade, became a lieutenant. All in all, he spent two whole years in or near the District of Columbia, now is at Fort Belvoir, Va., just a half hour away.

The other O'Daniel boy, Mike, also was stationed at the coveted post of Fort Washington for more than a year, just a few miles from his father's suite at the Hotel Washington. Only a few days ago, after his father made his rip-roaring speech about "our brave sons away from home, fighting," Mike was transferred away. The War Department will not reveal where he is at present.

However, both boys are officials of their father's new newspaper which so bitterly attacks their Commander-in-Chief, Franklin Roosevelt. Mike O'Daniel is president of the paper, and Lieut. Pat O'Daniel is vice president.

FLYING SIMPLE WITH AUTOPILOT

New Device May Boost Aviation In Post-war Period

BY ELMER W. GAEDÉ
Chicago, July 15. (P.)—The dream of postwar planners of an airplane in just about every garage has received a big boost from the development of an electronic autopilot—a wartime improvement of the automatic pilot.

Details of the operation of the electronic autopilot were released today for publication for the first time.

Reporters were taken aloft in a B-17 flying fortress in a routine test flight and not only saw an actual demonstration of the device but each was given a chance to take over control of the huge plane.

Men whose only previous experience in a plane had been as passengers in commercial airlines, took over with the autopilot and operated the fortress, making the plane bank with a mere flick of the finger. It gave rise to the speculation that a slogan of the not-too-distant future may be, "How to become an airplane pilot in one easy lesson."

Reporters Take Over
The four-motored fortress, second in size only to the new B-29 Superfortress, and assigned by the Army Air Forces Materiel Command for experimental purposes to the Minneapolis-Honeywell Regulator Company, which manufactures the autopilot in its Chicago plant, took off from Municipal airport piloted by C. W. Ophel, a Northwest Airlines pilot assigned to Minneapolis-Honeywell.

When the plane reached 12,000 feet, the reporters took over under the supervision of Joseph W. Skogvold, an aviation research engineer for Minneapolis-Honeywell.

They operated the plane from the bombardier's position in the nose of the plane while Ophel sat back in his position on the flight deck, handy to the manual controls in case of emergency, merely giving occasional instructions over the interphone to keep the plane on course.

The autopilot has been standard equipment for nearly three years on the AAF's four-engine bombers. The new B-29, which has twice bombed Japan, also is equipped with the device.

The automatic pilot, which to a casual observer is a small black box-like affair with knobs and levers, was a military secret until it was definitely established that aircraft equipped with it were shot down over enemy territory and the enemy aware of its existence.

Accurate Control
It is an electronic device built around two gyroscopes, the cases of which are fixed to the plane with the spinning rotors free to move in all directions. The movements of the airplane around the rotors are picked up electronically and translated into control of the operation of the plane's rudder, elevators and ailerons with the aid of small electric motors in various parts of the plane.

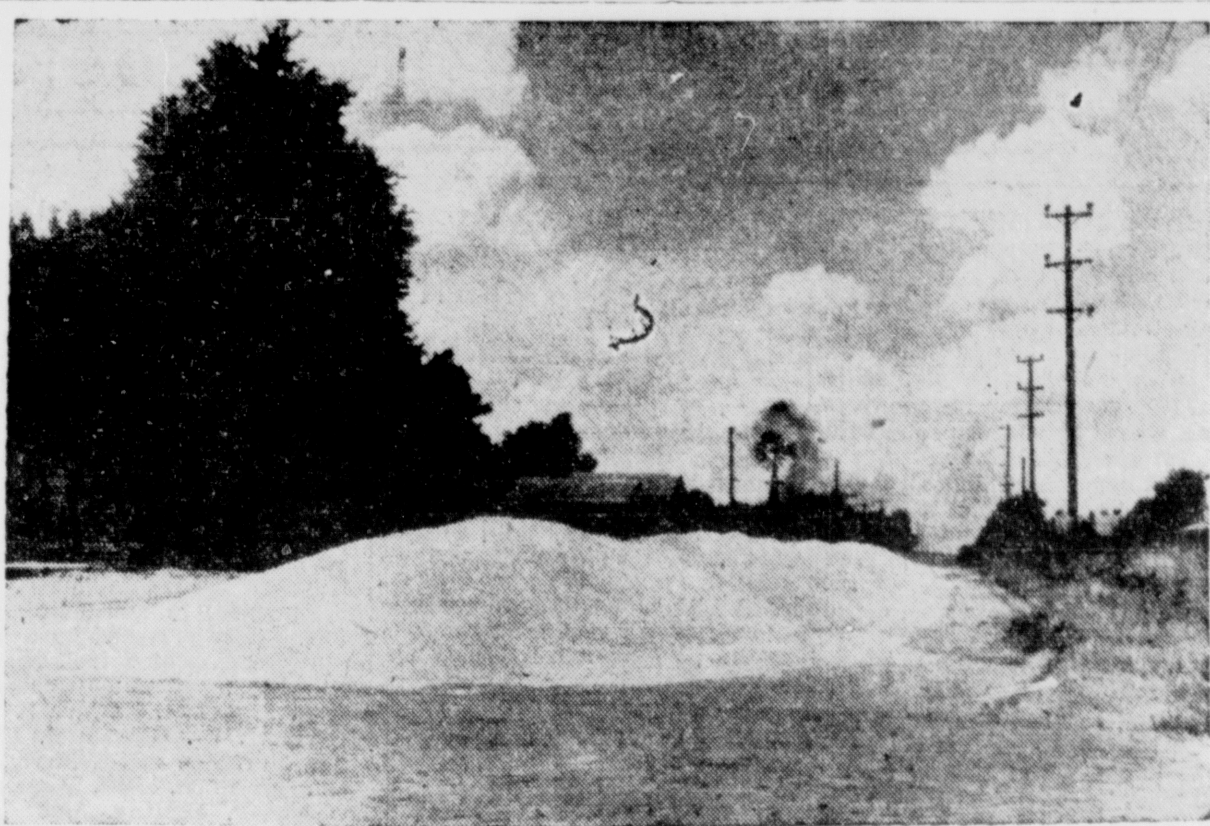

The autopilot, a great advance over the ones in use for more than a decade in airplanes, is capable of making more than 200 flight corrections a minute, or more than one every second. This is much more accurate control than in manual operation.

W. J. McGoldrick, vice president in charge of aeronautical engineering for Minneapolis-Honeywell, which, in cooperation with the AAF Materiel Command, has developed the autopilot, said he saw the possibility the device could make it possible in the future for anyone who can drive an automobile to operate a plane.

"It already has been developed to the point where a plane can be easily handled in the air," McGoldrick said, "and there have been numerous instances where planes have been landed with the device after their manual control cables had been shot away."

"With constant experimenting, both by our company and other manufacturers working with the AAF Materiel Command, I feel certain we will be able to develop the autopilot so it can be used in takeoffs and landings."

"When that day comes, the operation of an airplane might very well be as easy as driving an automobile," McGoldrick added, "but of course, a knowledge of flying and navigation will be necessary."

Robert Pfothenhauer Sees Pope Pius At Vatican Reception

With the Fifth Army, Italy—Pvt. Robert J. Pfothenhauer, 312 South 17th street, Escanaba, Mich., an infantryman with the Fifth Army's Third (Marne) Division, was one of some fifty American, British and French soldiers, who crowded into a bright reception chamber in Vatican City recently for an audience with Pope Pius XII.

Pvt. Pfothenhauer, who had just completed a visit to St. Peter's Cathedral, told how the soldiers began gathering on the ramp leading into the audience room at mid-morning to be able to gain admittance at noon. Only a specified number of soldiers were permitted to visit the pope daily.

After convening in the reception chamber there was a long wait before the pope's arrival. This gave the men an opportunity to study the lavish surroundings. Pvt. Pfothenhauer said he was impressed with the small postcard reproduction of the pope and a rosary presented each visitor after the audience.

He described how the pope came in quickly through a small corridor, accompanied by his personal aides, and mounted a small platform at the window end of the room. His smile was warm and informal, and he spoke briefly after which he blessed all the men.

Then, said Pfothenhauer, he left as quickly as he entered.

FLY BREEDER OF DISEASES

Escanaba C-C Points To Danger Of Germ Spread

Flies, food and fingers spread many diseases, the health committee of the Escanaba Chamber of Commerce warned in a reminder issued today in cooperation with the local medical profession and health authorities.

"Flies feed on human and animal wastes, many of which contain the germs of various diseases," said Harry D. Brackett, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce health committee.

These disease germs adhere to the legs and bodies of flies. When the flies come in contact with food or milk they frequently contaminate these products with the germs which they carry on their bodies or legs. Also, disease germs infested by flies feeding on contaminated waste products, sometimes pass through the flies' digestive tracts and are deposited in fly specks, on food later consumed by humans.

Flies menace the health of babies and children particularly. Typhoid fever, dysentery, and infantile diarrhea frequently are transmitted by flies. These diseases are sometimes fatal to infants.

The virus of poliomyelitis—infantile paralysis—has frequently been found on flies.

Screens should be used to exclude flies from homes. Flies that succeed in entering the home despite screens should be killed promptly. Food and milk supplies should be protected from contamination by flies, and garbage cans should be provided with tightly fitting covers. The Health Advisory Council of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States advises. Neighborhoods with unusual fly problems should seek the assistance of the health department.

News From Men In The Service

Sgt. Edward P. Hakes, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ed J. Hakes, of Wilson, has returned to his home for a furlough after serving 23 months in the Aleutian Islands. He entered service with Lawrence Hupy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hupy, of Spaulding, and the two boys have been together for 27 months in service, returning to their respective homes together.

Word has been received by Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Burgo, 928 North Eighteenth street, that their grandson, P. E. Annuta has been promoted to the rank of Lt. Colonel. He is with the 86th Combat Mapping Squadron and has been in the South Pacific for nineteen months.

SGT. Herbert Scheuneman, who has been stationed with the Coast Guard at Duluth, Minn. for the past 15 months, is now aboard the USCGC Cutter Sedco. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Scheuneman of Ford River.

Pvt. Kryn Bloom, who is serving with the U. S. army in New Guinea, was recently promoted to corporal.

With the Fifth Army, Italy—Private First Class Richard C. Porath, of 615 Stephenson Avenue, Escanaba, Michigan, has been promoted to Staff Sergeant. He is in the infantry serving in Normandy.

has received the Combat Infantryman's Badge for actual participation in combat with the enemy on the Fifth Army front in Italy.

The standards for awarding the decoration are high. It recently was authorized by the War Department as a means of giving credit to the infantry soldier who has proved his fighting ability in combat. The award consists of a silver rifle against a background of infantry blue, set in a silver wreath.

With the Fifth Army, Italy—Corporal Oscar Huttula, son of Mrs. Mary Huttula, who lives in Rock, Michigan, is a member of an ordinance company that recently completed its 1500th week order. The outfit, now with the Allied Fifth Army in Italy, repairs and reconditions everything from a wrist watch to a 155-millimeter gun.

It has participated in the North African and Salerno invasions and arrived on the Anzio beachhead within five days after it was established. The company was attached to the 3rd "Marne" Division and has fought northward in the drive up the Italian peninsula.

Sgt. Francis P. Courville, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Courville of Escanaba Route One, has been promoted to Staff Sergeant. He is in the infantry serving in Normandy.

Word has been received by Mrs. Nap Morin Jr., 321 North Twelfth street, that her husband is stationed at Paris Island, S. C. in the Marine Corps.

CARELESS MATCHES—WEAPONS OF SABOTAGE!

YOUR CIGARETTES, your lighted matches, your neglected campfires can cause more damage to America's war effort than the biggest bomb. What's more, they DO.

Last year, more forest and range fires were started by the carelessness of patriotic, law-abiding citizens like yourself than by arsonists, lightning, or any other cause.

These forest and range fires sabotaged the war effort by destroying critical materials and draining manpower.

This year we mustn't let Our Carelessness be the Enemy's Secret Weapon.

So, when we go into the woods, let's be careful—more careful than we've ever been before. Let's obey the rules illustrated here, and ask others to do so. Let's solemnly resolve that no thoughtless act of ours shall give "aid and comfort" to the Axis.

ATTENTION, BRUSH BURNERS!

More than 6 million acres are burned, yearly, because of YOUR careless use of fire in clearing plow land and burning logging and other slash and debris. Do your part this year.

Remember:

1. Don't burn without a permit from a ranger or fire warden.
2. Don't burn during unusually hot, dry, or windy weather.
3. Scrape a trail or "plow around" areas to be burned.
4. Have help handy till the last spark is dead.

REMEMBER THESE RULES:

Crush out your smoke

Drawn your campfire—then bury it

Break your burned match

IF YOU BURN SLASH

First—get a permit
Last—kill every spark

Joyce Bernard
Becomes Bride
Of R. Cousineau

Miss Joyce Bernard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Regis Bernard, 1819 Ninth avenue north, became the bride of Robert Cousineau, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Cousineau, 803 North 20th street, in a ceremony performed by Rev. Fr. Norbert Freidberger in St. Patrick's church, July 8.

The bride, who was attended by a sister of the groom, Mrs. Ed Terrian, wore for her wedding a cherry suit with all white accessories and a shoulder corsage of white carnations.

Her only bridesmaid was gown in a pale blue suit, luggage accessories and a corsage of pink carnations. The best man at the wedding was the groom's brother-in-law, E. Therian.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Bernard wore a green dress with matching accessories and the bridegroom's mother wore a blue dress with matching accessories.

Following the ceremony a breakfast for twenty guests was served at the Cousineau home.

The bride and groom are both graduates of Escanaba high school. The bride was employed by the F. W. Woolworth company and the bridegroom is home from active duty in Italy.

Lutheran Bible
Camp to Open
At Fortune Lake

The 15th annual Bible Conference and Summer Camp of the Superior Conference Luther League will open Sunday afternoon at the Fortune Lake Bible Camp, located three miles from Crystal Falls. Outstanding teachers and youth leaders have been secured as faculty for the week's encampment.

The main Bible teachers for the week are Rev. T. L. Rybeck of Chicago and Dr. Edgar Carlson of St. Peter, Minn., recently elected president of Gustavus College, located at St. Peter, one of the leading educational institutions of the Lutheran Church in America. Assisting teachers and lecturers will be Rev. William Siegel, Iron Mountain, president of the Superior Conference; Rev. Palmer Nestander, Manistique; Rev. Mark Wickstrom, Ogemaw, Wis.; Rev. A. P. Salmonson, Bangor; Rev. T. E. Johnstone, Ironwood; Rev. M. Hedin, Stephenson; Rev. Clifford Peterson, Gladstone, and Miss Annette Anderson, Escanaba, music director.

Registration to date indicates that a large number of young people will be in attendance. A number of young men and women from the local Bethany Lutheran church, Dr. C. Albert Lund, pastor, plan to attend the camp.

Six Young People
Will Attend Camp

Six young people are leaving today for a week's session at the Young People's Institute of the Methodist church, held on the Institute grounds, Lake Michigan. Registration begins at two o'clock this afternoon.

The local girls attending the conference are Marilyn Watson, Mary Nicholas, Florence Anderson, Anna Mae Loveland, Mary Ellen Johnson and Charlotte Gustafson.

Worry Clinic

With Case Records Of
A Psychologist

BY DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

CASE C-295—Douglas D. Martin, aged about 50, is a progressive editor. He graciously introduced me when I made an address in Detroit. Then he sat through my address and remained for the luncheon, where he later presided during an open forum discussion of marriage problems.

Mr. Martin gave me such an impressive introduction that I almost had an attack of stage fright in trying to make good.

But I evened the score by introducing him to that great audience in a manner that they probably had never thought about previously.

Most Every Newspaper Editor—Mr. Martin is the distinguished head of a great educational institution with at least 1,000,000 students," I began.

"Since it is customary to allow three readers per subscriber, and since his paper has 350,000 circulation, Mr. Martin directs the thinking of as many students as we normally have in all the colleges and universities of the U. S. A.

Furthermore, he has his students 365 days of the year, and for at least 52 years of their life.

"At the age of 8, they begin reading the comic pages. Later they dip into the front page stories; then the features and editorials.

"After the age of 18 years, the average citizen quits school. Since our American longevity is now slightly above 60, for the final 42 years of his life, therefore, he relies almost exclusively on the newspaper for his printed intellectual stimulation and education.

"The average American is not a regular magazine reader. He does not read books regularly. The majority of Americans thus rely solely on the newspaper for their regular print stimulation.

"An editor of a newspaper of only 5,000 or 10,000 circulation thus has more students than are enrolled in the state university.

"And the editor of a great metropolitan daily may have a million or more followers for their entire lifetime of 52 years.

Power of Newspapers

"If we are to elevate the material standard of living and if we are to progress in our moral and cultural revolution, then we must recognize the newspaper as our chief instrument in the field of Adult Education.

"The obligations consequently devolving upon our editors are thus tremendous, for they select and print the factual data which are to form the basis for our current conversations on almost every topic.

"They furnish us the data from which we evolve our current public opinion. As true scientists, moreover, they attempt to give us the whole truth, government censorship permitting, and are the best defense we possess against the individual approach of dictatorship from within.

"Fortunately, the 2,500 American editors are inclined to be introverts, so they resist coercion and refuse to be regimented. American editors still give us the truth, despite the anger and consternation of governmental bureaucrats. They are America's cardinal educators."

(Always write to Dr. Crane, in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long 3c stamped, addressed envelope and a dime to cover typing or printing costs when you seek personal advice or one of his psychological charts.)

votes, James L. Minard was nominated treasurer polling 563 votes, Robert E. Spricks with 539, and R. E. Gibson with 17 votes were nominated cornermen. A. J. Mainville defeated David Morrison by a 386 to 225 vote for nomination as representative in the state legislature.

Tigers Set Sox Down 2-0; Outhomered Cubs Whip Pirates 11-5

OVERMIRE GETS NEAR NO-HITTER

Detroit Pitcher Faces Only 30 Batters, None Reach Second Base

BY WATSON SPOELSTRA

Detroit, July 14 (AP)—South-paw Frank Overmire set down the Chicago White Sox with two scratch singles today as the Detroit Tigers gained a 2 to 0 triumph for a 2-0 edge in the six game series.

The defeat dropped the Sox into seventh place behind the Tigers.

In a game played in the amazingly fast time of one hour and 19 minutes, Overmire came mighty close to a no-hitter as he faced only 30 batters. Hal Trosky scratched a hit off Rudy York's glove in the second and Wally Moses scratched one off Joe Hoover's glove in the sixth.

Overmire didn't issue a pass, but two other Sox got life on errors. One was erased in a double play, however, and not a man reached second base against Overmire, who likewise blanked Chicago on June 11, the last time he faced the Sox.

The Tigers gathered six hits off bespectacled Bill Dietrich, and the blow that decided the game was a second inning homer by Dick Wakefield, the $52,000 beauty who yesterday rejoined the Tigers after his release from the Navy. Wakefield drove the first pitch into the lower right field stands at the 370-foot mark.

Twin Bills Booked

Overmire scored the other run himself. He opened the sixth with a line double to left field. Overmire advanced on Joe Hoover's sacrifice, on which Ray Schalk dropped Dietrich's throw for an error, and scored on Eddie Mayo's line drive to Wally Moses in right field.

The victory was Overmire's fourth against eight defeats. Dietrich was charged with his seventh defeat against ten victories.

Trosky's hit came with one out in the second, but Overmire quickly retired Thurman Tucker and Tom Turner on flies. In the fourth York booted Ralph Hodgin's roller with two out, but nothing came of it.

Moses got his scratch hit with one out in the sixth. Overmire then fanned Schalk in one of his two strikeouts, and Moses was nailed trying to steal second. The Sox didn't get another man on until the ninth when Hoover bobbled Schalk's roller with two out. John Dickshot filed to Wakefield to end the game.

The two clubs play double-headers tomorrow and Sunday. Hal Newhouse, seeking his 14th victory, and Joe Orrell will pitch for Detroit tomorrow against Ed Lopat and Lee Ross. Manager Steve O'Neill will come back Sunday with Rufe Gentry and Paul Trout, using Roger Cramer, benched out of the field, for relief mound duty if needed.

Chicago — 000 000 000—0 2 2
Detroit — 010 001 000—2 6 2
Dietrich and Turner; Overmire and Richards.

Andersson Defeats Haegg In Stockholm

Stockholm, Sweden, July 14 (AP)—Arne Andersson defeated Gander Haegg in a 1,500 meter run at the Stockholm stadium tonight in the comparatively short time of 3:48.4.

The race was a renewal of the rivalry between the "Flying Swedes" which started a week ago at Gothenburg, when Haegg set a new world's record for the distance of 3:43.

NOVIKOFF IN HOSPITAL

Chicago, July 14 (AP)—Lou Novikoff, Chicago Cubs outfielder, was taken to the hospital for observation today after being seized with severe abdominal pains. Dr. John P. Davis said he would remain in the hospital for at least several days.

Of the persons engaged in administrative or professional work in the State Department, more than one-third are women.

YANKEES TAKE SECOND PLACE

NEW YORK, JULY 14 (AP)—Tex

Hughson, losing pitcher in the All-Star game, dropped another decision today when the New York Yankees measured the Boston Red Sox 4 to 3 to take over second place by a fraction of percentage point.

Hank Borowy, who checked the National League's first innings of the All-Star contest, went the route for the Yankees for his 12th victory as compared to four defeats and helped his own cause by driving in a run in the second with a double. Hughson, who was lifted for a pinch hitter in the seventh, was charged with his fourth setback as against 13 victories.

The Sox were charged with four errors with the result two of the Yankees' runs, all scored in the first three innings, were unearned.

Score by innings:

Boston — 000 100 101—3 9 3
New York — 121 000 000—4 7 2

ESCANABA LINKS TOURNEY OPENS

Annual Handicap Event For President's Cup Starts Today

BY WHITNEY MARTIN

New York, (AP)—For those who can take their football or leave it alone, but will take it if it's all the same to you, we are happy to recommend Clark Shaughnessy's latest book: "Football—in war and peace."

This ambitious effort, penned by the Pittsburgh coach who has put more model T's in operation over the country than Henry Ford, contains in its 90 large, generously illustrated pages enough fodder for arguments to satisfy the most rabid fan, although that obviously is not the purpose of the book.

Mr. Shaughnessy gives his opinions on most subjects with no "maybes" about it, yet he is not dogmatic about it and he is so obviously honest, and sets down his reasons for his opinions in such an entertaining and logical manner, that you find yourself agreeing with him without bothering to give your own ideas a work-out.

Picking the best this and the best that always involves personal opinion, particularly in competitive sports in which no mathematical yardstick is available and the period covered encompasses different generations. And such personal opinions usually leave the expounder wide open for such rebuttal opinions as "What a sap that guy is, anyway."

Lists 12 Best Games

But Mr. Shaughnessy plunges right ahead, and not only gives his opinion on one phase of the game, but takes in an oceanic territory. Briefly, he lists what he considers the 12 greatest football games, with vivid descriptions of each; the 12 greatest plays, all so dramatically presented; the 12 greatest backfields, based on the best for each five-year span over a 60-year total, and, most controversial of all, he lists the 11 greatest football players.

He's not overly partial to his own athletes, and if he says his Stanford backfield of 1940 was the best from 1940 until 1945, taking in territory yet unexplored, you must respect that opinion as honest, as that quartet of Frankie Albert, Pete Knutovic, Hugh Gallahan and Norman Standish really was something, and Mr. Shaughnessy would be blushing with undue modesty if he failed to think it tops.

Also included among the top backfields are the Pitt quartet of 1937-1938, Minnesota's 1934 powerhouse, Dartmouth's line 1925 foursome, and, of course, Notre Dame's four horsemen of 1924.

His all-time all-star team is a whiz. This is the kind of opinion that always brings about differences, as nearly everyone has a pet athlete he believes belongs. However, you'll have to talk fast to replace his choices of Bob Peck, Pitt, center; T. Truxton Hare, Penn. and Pudge Heffelfinger, Yale, guards; Bronko Nagurski, Minnesota, and Wilbur F. Henry, Washington, and Jefferson, end; Dutch Clark, Colorado, quarterback; Red Grange, Illinois, halfbacks, and Jim Thorpe, Carlisle, fullback.

All in all, it's an authoritative book written by a recognized authority, and one you can read without getting hot and bothered because you might not agree with the author on all counts. Mr. Shaughnessy has a soothing, conversational way about him even when he writes.

Rose Of Sharon Sails To Mackinac

The Rose of Sharon, skippered by Charlie Stoll, left port last night and will cruise to Mackinac Island over the weekend. The crew included Dr. Roy Banks, Art Aronson, Ollie Thatcher, Harry J. Gruber and David Walsh.

The 27th annual Chicago-Mackinac yacht race will finish up here this weekend and the crew of the Rose of Sharon will be on hand to see the finish.

Shutout Is Handed Cards By Reds, 3-0

ST. LOUIS, JULY 14 (AP)—Bucky

Walters shut out the St. Louis Cardinals for the third time this year, the Cincinnati Reds winning 3 to 0 tonight.

Walters has allowed the Cardinals one run in 40 innings this year. The Reds scored their first runs in the seventh. Ray Mueller opened with a single and scored on Steve Mesner's triple. Mesner came in on a balk by Morton Cooper.

Score by innings:

Cincinnati — 000 000 210—3 7 1
St. Louis — 000 000 000—0 6 1
Walters and Mueller; M. Cooper, Schmidt and W. Cooper.

BUCCS' WINNING STREAK HALTED

Series Now Even With Game Apiece; Hack Hit 4-Bagger

CHICAGO, JULY 14 (AP)—Pittsburgh

outhomered the Chicago Cubs, four to one, today, but the Chicagoans pieced together twelve other hits, seven walks, a double steal, and sundry other ingredients to end the Pirate's five-game winning streak, 11 to 5. The series is now evened at a game apiece.

Outfielder Tommy O'Brien hit homers his first two times at bat, his second coming just after Pete Coscarart had cleared the left field screen in the third inning, to kayo Bob Chipman.

All the Pirate homers came with the bases barren.

Stan Hack homered for the Cubs, like Coscarart and O'Brien getting his first of the year, but it was Roy Hughes who led the 13-hit attack against Ray Starr, Art Cuccurullo and Xavier Rescigno with a triple, double and single, scoring four runs and driving in a fifth. He scored on the front end of the double steal with Phil Cavarretta.

Score by innings:
Pittsburgh 102 001 100—5 9 1
Chicago — 203 200 130—11 13 1
Starr, Cuccurullo, Rescigno and Lopez; Chipman, Vandenberg and Williams.

Jim Carrig Gives Some Figures for Big League Stars

BY WHITNEY MARTIN

New York, July 13, (AP)—It's always interesting to pry into private lives of celebrities, as you usually find you are walking on common ground with them somewhere along the way and that one of your heroes likes bread pudding, has trouble wiggling his ears or eats with a knife and fork just as you do.

Which brings us to Jimmy Carrig, who has the baseball players pretty well sized up, literally speaking. Mr. Carrig is known as "The Goldsmith Man," after the sporting goods company for which he labors, and after years of sneaking up behind athletes and putting a tape measure to their feet or around their heads or equators he has come up with some interesting figures, large and small.

15½ Size Brogans

For instance, Paul Derringer of the Cubs is Mr. Big. He wears a size 50 shirt and a 7 5-8 cap. Bob Newsom also wears a 50 shirt, and Thornton Lee a 7 5-8 cap, but Derringer has a bigger head than Bobo, literally, and his chest is more ample than Lee's.

Mike Naywick keeps the biggest dogs. Mr. Carrig reveals, Naywick wears 15½ brogans. Johnny Gee, the 6-foot-9 inch giant, wears the longest uniform, with a shirt tail 12 inches longer than standard and his pants nine inches longer.

The late Jack Hendricks, once pilot of the Reds, wore a size 8 hat, which topped him and everybody else, and any idea that Lou Boudreau's head swelled when he was made Indian pilot while still a child, speaking from a baseball standpoint, is dispelled by the fact he, along with Muddy Ruel and Val Goodman, wears the smallest hats, about 3 1/2.

Myrl Hoag wears 4½ shoes of "D" width, and Dom Delasandro wears the same size, but requires triple "E" indicating his feet are so round he can roll along on them. Skeeter Webb and Ruel wear the smallest uniforms, 40 shirts and 34 pants. Mr. Carrig says pitcher Walter Brown wore a 54 shirt, and Gob Buckeye, once a Cleveland pitcher, called for 48 pants.

Mr. Carrig considers Kiki Cuyler, now piloting Atlanta, as the Beau Brummel of all time, it was Cuyler who invented the pants roll to give that streamlined look in Vogue at the time.

Other information gathered by Mr. Carrig in his 20 years of equipping the Athletics includes: Chief Meyers wielded the largest bat—24 ounces. A 42-ounce budgeon in his hey-day, Al Simmons used a bat 38 inches long compared with the average of 35, and Willie Keeler used the smallest war club, a 32-inch, 30-ounce model. Babe Herman used to have three bats handy, one to hit to left, one to center and one to right. He also treated his bats with iodine until they smelled like a clinic. Kiki Cuyler would weigh his bats on a parcel post scale every day, and use the one nearest to 33 ounces. He contended his swing was geared to a 33-ounce bat, and moisture affected the clubs. Harry Hooper insisted the same tape remain on his bat handle during a season, and he once held up a game while he retrieved the tape a fellow player had removed and patiently re-wound the club.

ARMY REJECTS BAGBY

Cleveland, July 14 (AP)—Roger Peckinpaugh, vice president of the Cleveland Indians, said today Jim Bagby, last year's Indian pitching ace who was rejected in a pre-induction physical examination at Fort Monmouth, N. J., had telephoned he would report to the Indians in Cleveland Sunday.

The Sports Parade

By Ken Gunderman

For many years collegiate football and professional football had distinct and separate promoters and their own cheering sections, but in recent years many successful college coaches have invaded the ranks of the professionals. As a result, it has now become quite possible to get fair appraisals of the relative merits of the two brands of football. So when Lieut. Commander Jack Sutherland, who has coached the University of Pittsburgh Panthers as well as the Brooklyn Dodgers pro-team, says flatly that the pros have kept abreast of the fans but the collegians have not, his remarks are worthy of some serious consideration.

Actually Sutherland's remarks are not at all surprising, because he merely is repeating something that the fans have known for a long time. Professional football is more thrilling than collegiate football for a number of reasons, but principally because the pros keep their collective fingers on the pulse of the football fans. They know what the fans like in the way of football entertainment and are anxious to serve them what they want. The pros, of course, can revise their rules easily because they have a well greased, compact organization. The collegians, on the other hand, spread from coast to coast in numerous large conferences and many more smaller ones.

Many football areas of the United States have been relatively untouched by the impact of professional football. The fans in these areas have lacked the opportunity to see the wide open, spectacular type of game played by the pros, so naturally they have not pressed for changes in the rules among the collegians. The spread of professional football is on the way, however, and with it will bring increased demands for greater thrills in the collegiate sport.

Surprisingly, despite all of the clamor in the east and middle west for more spectacular football from the collegians to reach a level with the professional sport, there has been little pressure for a return of the goal posts to the goal lines. Yet the fact that the pros have their goal posts on the goal line, instead of the end line, which is 10 yards farther back, is one of the principal reasons that the pros do a lot of scoring. The pay-for-play boys have made field goal kicking an integral part of the game and because of this potential scoring threat, it has tended to improve the other scoring weapons, including passing and running. Personally, I would not want to see the goal posts returned to the goal line, but as a further incentive for field goal kicking, I would like to see the value of the field goal increased from three to four points.

Hit and Miss—According to rumor, Pete Reiser, ex-Dodger star, soon will receive a medical discharge from the army and will return to Flatbush. Frank Demaree, former major leaguer, has signed with Portland of the Pacific Coast league. Pinky Higgins has passed the 1,000 mark in runs batted in. Jimmy Fox has been taken off the Cubs' active player list to make room for Red Lynn, right-handed pitcher. Double X will remain with the Cubs, however, as a coach. This is the first season since Babe Ruth came to New York in 1920 that clubs opposing the Yankees are hitting more home runs than the Bronx Bombers.

Senators Tripped Twice By Athletics On 4 To 3 Count

WASHINGTON, JULY 14 (AP)—Russ

Christopher turned Washington back for a 4-3 win in the second game as Philadelphia took both ends of a double-header with the Senators tonight before 12,231 fans. The Athletics took the opener 4 to 3.

The Senators got seven safeties, while the A's smacked Early Wynn's offerings for eight blows. Christopher hurled air-tight ball in the late innings after a shaky start. Joe Berry took over after Christopher walked two men in the ninth.

In the opener, Bobby Estalella singled home a pair of runs in the ninth to give Connie Mack's crew the decision.

George Case, Washington's speed specialist, stole four bases in the two games, including a theft of home in the nightcap. The performance boosted his season's total to 24.

Great Lakes Nine Beats Blues, 20-1

GREAT LAKES, ILL., JULY 14 (AP)—

Jim Trexler, Bluejacket skipper, won his eighth straight game of the season today as Lieut. Commander Gordon S. "Mickey" Cochran's Great Lakes Sailors defeated the Kansas City Blues, 20 to 1.

Wobbly mound performance got the Blues off to a bad start, as the Bluejackets solved the slants of Bill Wiley and Roger Grunwald for sixteen runs in the first two innings. Dick Hearn studied the American Association club down allowing but one run in four innings but Golden Holt gave up three tallies in the eighth.

Dick West and Johnny McCarthy tied for Great Lakes batting honors with three hits each in four times at bat.

It was the 27th Great Lakes victory this season in 28 games.

Score:

Kansas City — 0 00 010 000—1 3 2
Great Lakes — 6100 010 30x—20 19 3
Batteries: Wiley, Grunwald, Hearn and Holt and Jordan, Mills; Trexler and Cochran, Mills.

for the night, but the soldiers would have to sleep the way they were.

We were just ready to start when all of a sudden bullets came whipping savagely right above our heads.

"It's those damn 20-Millimeter again," the lieutenant said. "Better hold it up a minute."

The soldiers all crouched low behind the wall. The vicious little shells whanged into a grassy hillside just beyond us. A French suburban farmer was hitching up his horses in a barnyard on the hillside. He ran into the house. Shells struck all around it.

Two dead Germans and a dead American still lay in his driveway. We could see them when we moved up a few feet.

The shells stopped, and finally the order to start was given. As we left the protection of the high wall we had to cross a little culvert right out in the open and then make a turn in the road.

The men went forward one at a time. They crouched and ran, speckle across this dangerous space. Then, beyond the culvert, they filtered to either side of the road, stopping and squatting down every now and then to wait a few moments.

The lieutenant kept yelling at them as they started: "Spread it out now. Do you want to draw fire on yourselves? Don't bunch up like that. Keep five yards apart. Spread it out, dammit."

There is an irresistible pull to get close to somebody when you are in danger. In spite of themselves, the men would run up close to the fellow ahead for company.

The other lieutenant now called out: "Now you on the right watch the left side of the street for snipers, and you on the left watch the right side. Cover each other that way."

And a first sergeant said to a passing soldier: "Get that grenade out of its case. It won't do you no good in the case. Throw the case away. That's right."

Some of the men carried grenades already fixed in the ends of their rifles. All of them had hand grenades. Some had Browning automatic rifles. One carried a bazooka. Interspersed in the line of men every now and then was a medic, with his bags of bandages and a Red Cross arm band on the left arm. The men didn't talk any. They just went.

They weren't heroic figures as they moved forward one at a time a few seconds apart. You think of attackers as being savage and bold. These men were hesitant and cautious. They were really the hunters, but they looked like the hunted. There was a confused excitement and a grim anxiety in their faces.

They seemed terribly pathetic to me. They weren't warriors. They were American boys who by mere chance of fate had wound up with guns in their hands sneaking up a death-laden street in a strange and shattered town in a faraway country in a driving rain. They were afraid, but it was beyond their power to quit. They had no choice.

They were good boys. I talked with them all afternoon as we sneaked slowly forward along the mysterious and rubble street, and I know they were good boys.

And even though they aren't warriors born to the kill, they win their battles. That's the point.

PRICE PANELS ARE ENLARGED

Specialists In Various Commodities Named To Ration Board

Specialists in the marketing and pricing of specific commodities have been appointed to the Delta county rationing board price panels. It has been announced by the Office of Price Administration.

M. L. Council has been appointed as the price panel specialist in durable goods; Joe Carlson, specialist in dry groceries; Al Geartis, specialist in fruits and vegetables; and Charles Gafner, specialist in meats. Additional specialists may be appointed from the various trades as the needs develop. It was indicated.

The new system is designed to provide a more efficient program for price control, both from the standpoint of the consumer as well as the trade.

The appointments were made this week at a meeting of the price panel and associates at the local rationing board, at which representatives of the district office of the OPA also attended.

The price panel specialists, all volunteers as are other members of the ration board panels, will assist traders in observing OPA price ceilings and posting regulations, and will also assist the price panel members in meeting problems of the trade.

War Bond Leaders Announced By Asp

Millage for Township And Township School Purposes Allocated

Permanent allocation of tax millage to townships and township schools in Delta county for the current fiscal year was made following hearing at a meeting of the allocation board last evening at the county courthouse.

In practically every instance the millage allowed the township schools was that requested by the school boards and allocation was made after careful scrutiny of the budgets submitted by the various township school boards.

Millage allowed the various townships and schools of the township follow:

Twp.	Schools
Baldwin	2 6
Bark River	2.5 5.5
Bay de Noquet	1.5 6.5
Brampton	1 7
Cornell	1.5 6.5
Escanaba	1 7
Ensign	0 8
Fairbanks	1.5 6.5
Ford River	2 6
Garden	1 6.9
Garden Village	1 --
Maple Ridge	2 6
Masonville	2.5 5.5
Nahma	1.5 4.5
Wells	0 6

Allowances were also made for school debt service in three instances. Baldwin township will levy an additional seven mills for this purpose while Maple Ridge township will levy six mills. Two mills for debt service for the Nahma schools was also allowed.

Members of the allocation board are Ralph Olsen, William Warming, C. P. Titus, Pat Gasman, H. J. Skoquist and Henry Wylie. Ole Thorsen served in the absence of Wylie and Gasman presided in the absence of Olsen, chairman of the board.

Blitz Balloon May Be New Nazi Trick

London, Saturday, July 15 (AP)—A hint of a new German "secret weapon" came today from the Swedish radio which reported a "foreign barrage balloon, with a drum holding an inflammable liquid and an explosive charge suspended from it, had come down in Sweden yesterday.

SENTENCE GIVEN TO WIFE OF 16

Soldier Checks Cashed From Two; Red-Head Goes To Prison

Detroit, July 14 (AP)—Judge Frank A. Picard today sentenced much-married Korine Becker, 35 and red-haired, to two years in the federal reformatory for women at Alderson, W. Va., and ordered her to pay a $2,000 fine for fraudulently obtaining servicemen's allotment checks from two of the 15 or 16 men she told the FBI she married.

She had pleaded guilty to a seven-count indictment charging her with cashing five allotment checks as the wife of Lloyd H. Osworth and two as the wife of Jacob E. Horn.

To avoid confusion, the government indicted her under her maiden name. If she took the names of all her remembered husbands, she would be Mrs. Korine Labay Hopkins Coffey Sperron Fitz Barker Stormans Neumann Patchett Zerich Wilhelm Osworth Horn Galvin Stankovich.

Judge Picard read the list from the record, and observed that federal investigators had established all but three of the aliases. Korine had told FBI agents she remembered only four divorces.

"I am not officially interested in the number of husbands you have had, nor even in your methods of getting them," Judge Picard said. "I am interested in the fact that you are being sentenced."

Yugoslavia Split Over General Tito

Washington, July 14 (AP)—Declaring that an attempt by the New Yugoslav government to impose Marshal Tito on the people of Yugoslavia would lead to civil war, Yugoslav ambassador Constantine Fotitch resigned today.

Fotitch, who represented King Peter's government here since 1942, said he would now take on the job of representing a committee headed by Gen. Draha Mihailovich, Tito's rival in Yugoslavia.

GENERAL BURIED IN FRENCH SOIL

Stirring Military Rites Held For Teddy Roosevelt

BY HAL BOYLE

U. S. Fourth Division Cemetery in France, July 14 (AP)—Brig. Gen. Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., was buried tonight in the French soil on which he fought in two wars against German aggression.

He lies among 2,000 doughboys he loved and who gave their lives in battle in the same cause for which he wore out his restless heart.

The general who died of a heart attack induced by exhaustion, was buried with pomp and pageantry in a stirring military ceremony that will never be forgotten by those who witnessed it.

Even as the flag-draped wooden coffin was lowered, the distant rattle of machine guns and the black patches of anti-aircraft fire bursting in the faraway clouds told of the progress of the war against the enemy.

Three volleys rang out under the elm trees, and bugles sounded the silvery note of taps in the darkening twilight as the red soil of Normandy received the body of General "Teddy."

Standing mute as a statue during the 20-minute ceremony was the general's son, Quentin, a captain in "Teddy's" favorite division, the "Fighting First." Beside him were the general's aide, Lt. Marcus Stevenson of San Antonio, Texas, and the driver of the general's jeep for the last two years, 7/4 Kurt Show, Roslyn, N. Y.

Baby-Snatcher Will Return To Detroit

Detroit, July 14 (AP)—A warrant charging Mrs. Alice Drawdy, 28, of Columbus, O., with kidnapping seven-month-old Michael Alessi, who disappeared from a beer garden here Wednesday night, was signed today by Recorder's Judge Donald VanZile.

The woman was arrested yesterday in a Columbus hotel, with the baby in her custody. She pleaded guilty today in a Columbus police court of being a fugitive from justice and waived extradition to Detroit.

Accompanied by the child's mother, Mrs. Sam Alessi, Detroit police were in Columbus today to bring Mrs. Drawdy back to Detroit.

Home-Made Fence Kills Marlette Boy

Marlette, Mich., July 14 (AP)—John William Murray, two year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Murray, was electrocuted today on a home-made electric fence at the farm of his parents seven miles south of here. The mother found her son's body dangling from the wire, strung out two feet above ground. The fence was erected to keep cattle from straying. Sheriff Leslie Mathews, Lapeer county, termed the death accidental.

OFFERS TO BUY LAND

attempting to fight through Allied encirclement.

Farther west, Allied forces captured the Sawar airbase, 3 miles west of the Maffin Bay airbase, July 12 without resistance. Japanese resistance in the Maffin Bay area has collapsed.

The initial Japanese drive in the Aitape area carried them across the Drinimo river, 21 miles east of Aitape, but stubborn American resistance forced the enemy to reorganize.

A total of 268 Japanese have been buried in the Aitape area, since the current push began by General Hatazo Adachi. Naval and air forces pounded the Japanese rear areas.

The fighting lines are fluid in the Drinimo river valley, with Yanks and Nipponese on both sides of the river.

(This announcement indicated the first well-organized Japanese assault, which began Wednesday at dawn, had forced the withdrawal of Allied outpost positions.)

The Japanese—survivors of the 1st Imperial army are commanded by General Hatazo Adachi. Proceeding with crafty strategy, he apparently is attempting to break American lines to avoid further decimation of his 45,000 men from jungle rigors.

Headquarters announced a 3,000-ton Japanese freighter, loaded with men and ammunition, sank in two minutes after attacked by Allied aircraft at Halaherra Island, some 300 miles south of the southern Philippines. The assault was July 9.

GERMANS ARE HURLED BACK IN NORMANDY

The British were building up for fresh battles.

Northeast of Imperiled Periers the Germans attacked for two hours last night near Auxais, then withdrew, and the Americans swept forward and mopped up the village.

Enemy Troops Scrawny AP Correspondent Don Whitter told how the Germans were stripping their rear echelons in these frantic attacks. Some young soldiers arriving from Germany eight to ten days ago were among the prisoners.

Scrawny, underfed enemy troops—some of them from elite parachute and SS troops—contrasted strongly with their big, healthy conquerors, and Whitehead said the captives were impressed by the size and degree of training of the doughboys.

Behind the battle lines on many a sector Americans joined the French in celebrating Bastille Day—France's Fourth of July.

Within the sound of guns, Allied troops held joint services with the French, praying for the nation's speedy liberation.

BRITISH GAIN IN INDIA

Southeast Asia Command Headquarters, Kandy, Ceylon, July 14 (AP)—Japanese forces abandoned more positions in northeastern India after sharp fighting with advancing British troops, headquarters announced today.

PINSK FALLS TO ADVANCING SOVIET ARMY

Stalin partitioned Poland in 1939 and from which the Germans attacked the Russians June 22, 1941.

At the present rate of Russian progress, observers here predicted they might be in Brest Litovsk in four or five days.

At Wolkowsky, a German Major General Engel, commanding the 45th infantry division, surrendered. It was announced in the Soviet midnight communiqué, broadcast from Moscow and transcribed by the Soviet Monitor in London.

Russians Seek Showdown

Thirty miles north of Wolkowsky, the Russians announced they had captured Skidel, a town only 17 1/2 miles east of the big German stronghold of Grodno, but made no mention of German statements that they had twice penetrated Grodno itself and been driven back.

Northwest of liberated Wlino and in the curving tuize along the southern Latvian border, the Russians announced continued advances.

On the recently-activated northern sector, Gen. Andrei I. Yermenko's forces of the second Baltic front seized Opechka and were fighting the Germans in the streets of the city, the Soviet communiqué said. More than 40 other places also were captured on that front during the day.

Moscow refrained from saying how much actual mileage had been gained in the drive toward East Prussia, but Russian accounts intimated that the distances from the border now were only 20 miles at some points.

It was obvious that the Russian forces were moving on for a tremendous showdown in East Prussia, the cradle of "Junkerism." The official Soviet government paper Izvestia assured its readers that "The borders of the Soviet Union will remain far behind the Red army, which is going to finish off the Hitler beast in its lair."

Berlin Admits Retreat

Moscow dispatches did not confirm this German admission, but it appeared to be a logical development, and the Russians did say they were now 25 miles from the Suwalki triangle.

The Russians had been in the process of outflanking Pinsk for a fortnight, and apparently had made it untenable for the Nazis.

Similar tactics were in progress against Grodno. Moscow messages said that city had been by-passed on the north, where Russian forces were attacking on a 50-mile front against the Niemen River line between Grodno and Kaunas (Kovno).

The Germans acknowledged a retreat in the northern sector "to bring it into line with the central front," and other withdrawals in the south, in the Kowel and Luck areas.

In perfect flying weather, Russian operations were progressing under a tremendous cover of every type of warplane.

Newberry

CIRCUS SHOWS FINE HORSES

Dailey Brothers Coming To Escanaba On Tuesday

Tractors, heavy trucks and other motorized equipment may have replaced the horse in many activities with the circus but beautiful, excellently trained horses always will be as much a part of the show as the show itself.

With this in mind, Dailey Bros. Circus, exhibiting in Escanaba, Tuesday, July 18, has this year arranged a horse fair which includes not one but many winners of blue ribbons in horse fairs both in the United States and other nations.

Under the capable direction of Miss Hazel King, acknowledged premier horsewoman of the circus world, the large group of Palomino horses appear in an outstanding routine which is a memorable part of the two-hour performance. Such widely known stallions as Black Diamond and Major are included in the spectacular performances under the direction of Miss King.

The three-ring circus, one of the three railroad shows touring the United States this season, will arrive early in the morning of show day and spectators are invited to witness the unloading and erection of the acres of tents during the morning.

Performances will be given at 3 p. m. and 8 p. m. and doors will open an hour earlier that patrons may have ample time to inspect the large menagerie, zoo and horse fair. Animals from all corners of the earth, including a herd of elephants, cage wagons holding families of baboons rescued from Malaya the day before the fall of Singapore to the Japanese, and many other zoo animals will be on exhibit throughout the afternoon and evening. Tents will be erected at Ludington and 21st street.

The nearest of kin to John Donathan, previously reported missing in action, is in a hospital in France and is expected home in the near future.

Pfc. Russell Robare left for his base in Kessler Field, Miss., after spending a 10-day furlough here with his parents and friends.

Almost all of Egypt's 16 million people live in the lower Nile valley and delta.
